Report Writing should happen all year long, as soon as the project is complete is the time to start the report.

Assign one member or a reporting team to track all activity and collect reports.

PREPARING CLUB REPORTS | AWARD ENTRIES

Dollars Donated – is when funds are spent from your club account.

In-kind donation – reflects the monetary value for goods provided to programs/projects by your club or members including cash, gift cards, or merchandise.

Value of gently used merchandise – see in-kind donation guide on Report Writing Tab of the GFWC MA website.

Each club can write up from one to four projects in each area. Each area has its own report form – all forms can be downloaded from the GFWC MA website.

Projects done for GFWC Affiliate Organizations should be added to your SP or CSP reports. Use the statistical form to identify by Affiliate

WHAT THE JUDGES ARE LOOKING FOR

Projects are judged on CREATIVITY. Judges look for new and different projects or unique ways that a project was handled. Some simple changes can make a huge difference. Did technology share in the success? Tell us what made a difference.

Make sure to tell the full story. Be descriptive with the details.

Share how many people were impacted. How many clubwomen participated? Did you work with other organizations?

Start each project write up like this:

Project Name - # members, # hours, $00 donation, $00 in-kind donation Then start the paragraph, include the full club name in the write up. These should be written up in third person. Do not add people's names, use their titles (e.g., the Club President reached out).

Be realistic with volunteer hours and in-kind donation values.

Name your project – use a fun eye-catching title, many times those project catch the judge's eye.
